

ANOTHER OPEN SUNDAY

Justice Fuller's Decision Kept the Turnstiles Going.

THE ATTENDANCE IS INCREASING.

A Portion of the Exhibits Closed as Usual

Free Band Concerts Given—Religious Services Held in the City by Mr. Moody in Forepaugh's Circus Tent.

CHICAGO, June 12.—The uncertainty regarding the Sunday opening of the fair kept yesterday's early attendance to a low mark. Chief Justice Fuller's action in granting the supersedeas, postponing the injunction until an appeal can be heard, was not made known far enough away from Chicago in time to transportation was tested to its full capacity. The attendance for the day was good, considering that of last Sunday.

Considerable work was done in the manufacturers' building behind the drawn curtains of some of the exhibits. The doors to the Japanese pavilion at the north end of the building were barred and two guards stood on watch outside. Everything in the English section was shut up, while her neighbors across the wide aisle, but

A large force of men had possession of the Spanish section in the big hall after they were working hard under the supervision of the assistant commissioner. It is the intention of the assistant commissioner to have the Spanish deadlies in two or three days and then give a reception to the infants. The only buildings on the grounds that were crowded were the Conservatory of Larabida and the Krupp gun exhibit. These structures are small, but they are jammed all day by never ending crowds of people, who walk almost to the extreme southern port of the grounds to see the treasures they contained.

The free band concerts began at 3 o'clock. The programme of sacred and popular selections were liberally applauded. Religious services were held down town in the morning by Mr. Moore at Tattersalls and at Forrepaugh's circus in the afternoon, many of the attendees visiting the fair during the afternoon and evening.
